We are delighted to announce that the 8th International Spring Symposium in Tourism Development (VIII SSTD 2026) annual Conference will be hosted by the University of Las Palmas de Gran Canaria in Lanzarote island (Spain), during 18th and 19th June 2026. This SSTD 2026 is an International Conference organized by Tides, the Institute of Tourism and Sustainable Economic Development that belongs to the University of Las Palmas de Gran Canaria. Our University is the 35 in the world in the Global Shanghai Ranking 2024 by academic subjects in Hospitality and Tourism Management. We are also the first best university in Tourism studies in Spain and we are in the top 3 in the European Union. The VIII SSTD 2026 Conference will be held in the Hotel Arrecife Gran Hotel & Spa. Delegates can expect true Spanish hospitality! Some of our distinguished keynote speakers include Professor Robert Steiger from the University of Innsbruck (Austria), Professor Hai Nguyen from the University of Greenwich (London, UK) and Jacques Bulchand, Full Professor from the University of Las Palmas de Gran Canaria (Spain). We will also have an industry panel with relevant actors and experts in Tourism and Hospitality from the public and the private sector.

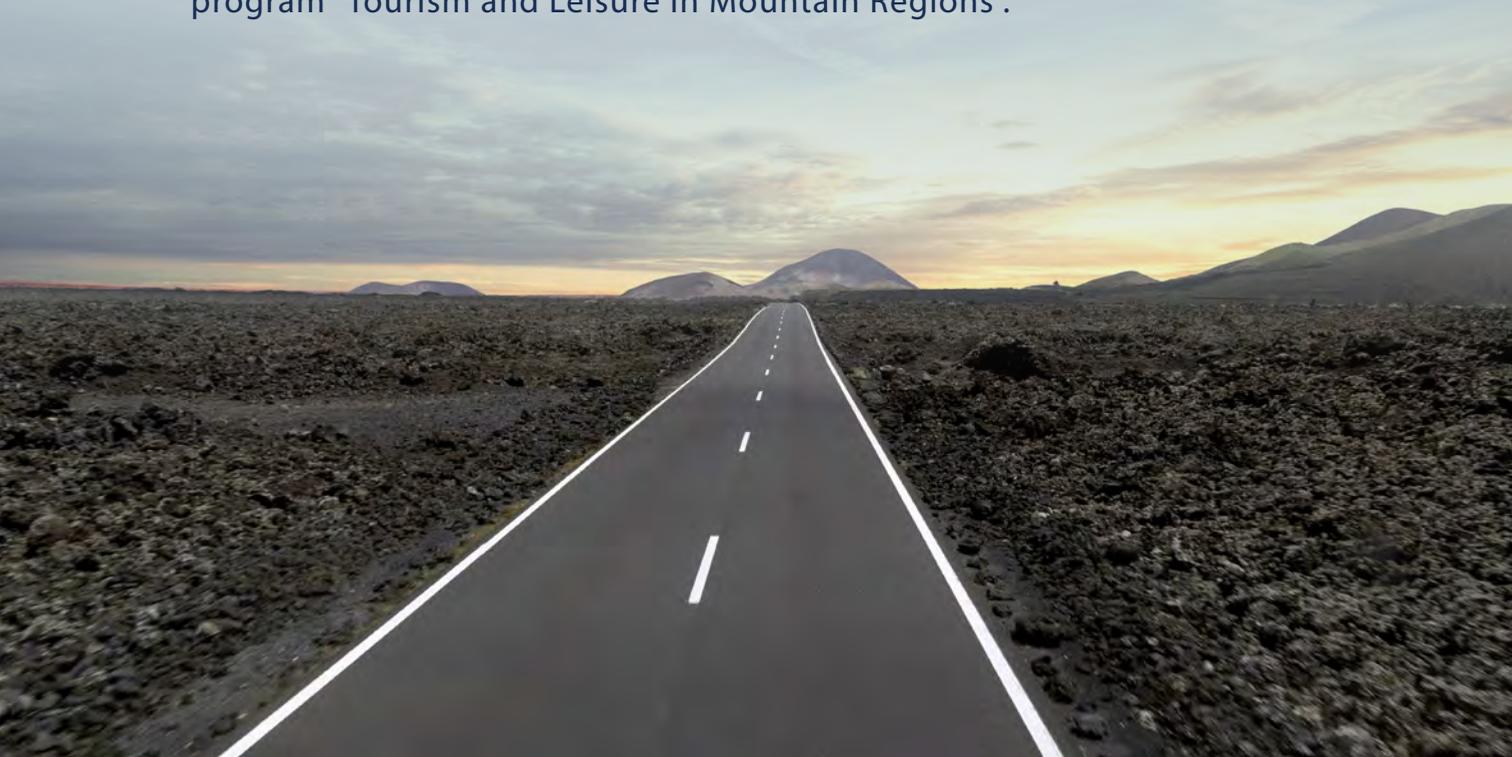

Some of the Conference Keynote Speakers

Robert Steiger
University of Innsbruck
(Austria)

Robert Steiger is an Associate Professor at the Department of Public Finance, University of Innsbruck, Austria. He has extensive experience in climate change adaptation and sustainable development in tourism, with over 100 academic publications. He is also very involved in knowledge transfer, e.g., as coordinating lead author of the Austrian Climate Change Assessment Reports 2014 and 2025, and of the 2021 Special Report on Tourism and Climate Change, but also in the context of regular appearances in the media and public lectures. He is the study coordinator of a tourism bachelor's program, and a master's program in sustainable regional development, and deputy speaker of the Doctoral program "Tourism and Leisure in Mountain Regions".

Hai Nguyen

University of Greenwich
(UK)

Dr Hai Nguyen is an Associate Professor of Tourism and Events at the University of Greenwich, UK. She has an extensive international academic background, having studied and worked at Hue University (Vietnam), the School of Travel Industry Management (US), Breda University of Applied Sciences (The Netherlands), the Hong Kong Polytechnic University, and Macau University of Science and Technology (China). Conference topics

Under the theme “Tourism and Residents’ Well-being”, the conference will examine how tourism can enhance the economic, social, and emotional well-being of local communities. In the face of climate change, digitalization, and the need for fairer development models, discussions will focus on inclusive policies, territorial planning, and responsible business practices that prioritize residents’ quality of life.

To this end, a series of topics of great interest and relevance for tourism and society will be addressed. These are:

Resident well-being and quality of life in tourist destinations

Participatory governance and inclusive management models

Tourism, housing, and social cohesion

Sustainable economic development and quality employment

Tourism, transport, and responsible mobility

Artificial intelligence and digital technologies applied to local well-being

Education, training, and skills development in tourism

Urban tourism, public spaces, and citizen coexistence

Overtourism and carrying capacity

Case studies of destinations that integrate tourism and community well-being

Tourism, health, and physical and emotional well-being

Neurotourism and resident perception

Educational innovation: methodologies applied to teaching in tourism management

Tourism and Sustainable Development Goals

Gender and managind diversity

We look forward to welcoming you
